

Hazing in College

Fraternity Hazing

Does it still exist?

Of Course it does!

Despite regulations from both local law enforcement and school officials, it's still a problem.

Just recently an 18 year old freshman died because he was forced to drink at a University of Texas fraternity.

The student died of alcohol poisoning, as his blood alcohol level was at .41 percent.

The University of Texas, which is known as one of the top party schools in the nation, has taken action by suspending the fraternity.

Three fraternity brothers were charged for their actions. All are misdemeanor charges.

For more on hazing see stophazing.org